Your Nativity at a Glance

This is a judgment of Native's nativity, not a list of placements. It states what the chart says about your capacities, difficulties, relationships, work, losses, conflicts, and likely periods of change. Each conclusion is weighted through sect, planetary condition, rulership, configuration, reception, and time lords.

The chart is DAY; the computed Sun altitude is 59.46 degrees. [E1]

Sect is applied before judging the malefics: Saturn is the more moderated malefic in this day figure, while Mars is less accommodated to the prevailing sect. This changes the manner and severity of their testimony; it does not make Saturn benefic or make every Mars testimony destructive. [E1]

The historical humoral tally is Phlegmatic (Cold/Moist); the hot/cold balance is -7 and the moist/dry balance is 5. [E104] In this report the humoral label is retained only to explain the historical model's preferred style of response; it does not classify the reader's body or mind.

The Angles and the Chart's Two Public Indicators

The Ascendant is Virgo 14°44'32". The astronomical Midheaven is Gemini 09°58'58" in whole-sign house 10; whole-sign house 10 remains the topical place of action and rank. [E2]

The rising sign makes Mercury the helm-ruler by domicile. Because that ruler is in house 10 in Gemini, the native's manner of entering situations and directing the chart is routed through action, reputation, and career. [E51]

Whole-sign house 10 is Gemini and ruled by Mercury; it judges action, rank, and visible undertaking. The Midheaven degree itself falls in house 10, Gemini, ruled by Mercury. Public action is therefore read through both rulers: one governs the tenth place, while the other governs the exact culminating degree. Their conditions and houses show how vocation, public visibility, and the supporting field are joined rather than collapsed into one

indicator. [E2] [E51] [E60] [E60]

The Direct Judgment

This is not a chart of effortless support or uncomplicated luck. It is a chart in which the work of Mercury—judgment, speech, writing, calculation, trade, technical craft, and negotiation—must repeatedly impose order on conflicts that arrive in clusters. The native's power is real, but it is earned through correction, endurance, and the refusal to let other people's disorder define the final result. [E30] [E65] [E66]

Mercury ranks first because it is essentially strong, angular placement, rules the Ascendant, rules the tenth place. You meet life through analysis, language, classification, bargaining, and the ability to understand how a system works. This does not make the life easy; it identifies the faculty that remains available when other topics are damaged. In practice, the native succeeds by performing Mercury's work more exactly than the surrounding circumstances perform theirs. [E30]

The Ascendant and tenth place answer to the same ruler, Mercury. Identity and vocation therefore cannot be separated: damage to the work is experienced personally, while mastery of the ruler's craft makes the native publicly consequential. This is authorship rather than borrowed status. The most credible advancement comes when the native owns the method, can show the work, and is not wholly dependent on another person's favor. [E51] [E60] [E30]

Mercury is both a principal source of agency and the end of 2 domicile chains. Its condition therefore has unusual chart-wide reach: when it can act, many topics gain a route to completion; when it is constrained, those same topics bottleneck through its house and condition. [E50]

The principal pressure network joins Sun, Moon, and Mercury through 2 hard contacts and distributes its effects through partnership and open contest, action, reputation, and career. Moon is the hub of that network. When one joined topic is activated, trouble does not remain local: attachment can become conflict, opportunity can become obligation, and another person's crisis can alter work, resources, or reputation. This is the chart's chief mechanism of consequential change. Dignity and reception may provide tools inside the configuration, but neither makes the configuration disappear. [E65] [E66]

The present clocks concentrate on Mercury (6 repetitions, natally in action, reputation, and career); Moon (3 repetitions, natally in partnership and open contest); Saturn (3 repetitions, natally in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children). These are not free-floating themes. Their natal houses and conditions name the people, conflicts, opportunities, and burdens through which the period becomes concrete. Repetition raises the probability of manifestation; it does not improve a debilitated ruler or damage a strong one. [E91] [E94] [E99] [E102] [E95] [E97]

The Blunt Conclusion

The native's strongest capacity is judgment, speech, writing, calculation, trade, technical craft, and negotiation. The chief recurrent danger is allowing the pressure network to consume what the strongest planet creates. The most credible achievement is not effortless good fortune, but a durable body of work, authority, or responsibility built through Mercury's actual skills and strong enough to survive the chart's repeated corrections. [E30] [E65] [E66]

The Leading Testimonies

Each planet acts in your life. Strength shows capacity; debility or maltreatment shows recurring failures, conflicts, losses, delays, and difficult people. Contrary testimony modifies rather than erases judgment.

The Two Lights

The Sun is strong in Gemini but hidden in house 10; the Moon is in the same sign and place with triplicity, free, and Morning Last. The will has real command, while the responsive and familial life is more obscured and dependent. Read together, the two lights describe the chart's basic alternation between outward direction and responsive adaptation. [E23] [E27]

The Seven Planetary Cabinets

Sun — The Hidden King

Sun is at Gemini 24°05'23" in whole-sign house 10; essential condition: face; phasis: Free; visible by the phasis test; domicile dispositor: Mercury. [E23] In your life Sun governs authority, purpose, honors, leadership, and the father or commanding figures. You need to direct your own course and are diminished when forced to live entirely under another person's authority. Because Sun's condition is mixed, these matters produce genuine ability together with a recurring price, compromise, or limitation. Its placement in action, reputation, and career makes this concrete: its condition becomes public through career, rank, reputation, command, and consequential action. Its minor dignities provide usable resources without making its testimony uncomplicated. Direct motion gives the planet a more continuous outward sequence, although dignity and place still decide its effectiveness. Its phase is Free. Orientality is not applied to this luminary. Its domicile dispositor is Mercury, so the planet's ability to deliver its topics ultimately depends on Mercury's condition. [E23]

Moon — The Dark Witness

Moon is at Pisces 14°48'05" in whole-sign house 7; essential condition: triplicity; phasis: Morning Last; visible by the phasis test; domicile dispositor: Jupiter. [E27] In your life Moon governs habit, belonging, family life, the mother or caregiving figures, and changes of circumstance. Your circumstances and attachments change in visible cycles; what you repeatedly return to matters more than a passing mood. Because Moon's condition is mixed, these matters produce genuine ability together with a recurring price, compromise, or limitation. Its placement in partnership and open contest makes this concrete: its condition is delivered by partners, opponents, clients, contracts, and other people who confront you directly. Its minor dignities provide usable resources without making its testimony uncomplicated. Direct motion gives the planet a more continuous outward sequence, although dignity and place still decide its effectiveness. Its phase is Morning Last. Orientality is not applied to this luminary. Its domicile dispositor is Jupiter, so the planet's ability to deliver its topics ultimately depends on Jupiter's condition. [E27]

Mercury — The Architect at the Helm

Mercury is at Gemini 05°37'09" in whole-sign house 10; essential condition: domicile, bound; phasis: Morning Last; not visible by the phasis test; domicile dispositor: Mercury. [E30] In your life Mercury governs judgment, speech, writing, calculation, trade, technical craft, and negotiation. You meet life through analysis, language, classification, bargaining, and the ability to understand how a system works. Because Mercury has major essential authority, these matters are real capabilities: you can originate, organize, and recover their operation from your own resources. Its placement in action, reputation, and career makes this concrete: its condition becomes public through career, rank, reputation, command, and consequential action. It therefore has a comparatively direct and self-consistent way of acting. Direct motion gives the planet a more continuous outward sequence, although dignity and place still decide its effectiveness. Its phase is Morning Last. It is oriental to the Sun in the configured calculation, adding a morning, initiating emphasis. Mercury is in its own domicile chain and therefore does not need another planet for sign-level governance. [E30]

Venus — The Besieged Ally

Venus is at Taurus 18°43'43" in whole-sign house 9; essential condition: domicile, triplicity; phasis: Morning Last; visible by the phasis test; domicile dispositor: Venus. [E33] In your life Venus governs love, friendship, agreement, pleasure, art, and social attachment. Bonds, allies, aesthetic judgment, and the ability to reconcile competing interests materially affect your fortunes. Because Venus has major essential authority, these matters are real capabilities: you can originate, organize, and recover their operation from your own resources. Its placement in religion, study, divination, and long journeys makes this concrete: its condition seeks expression through religion, divination, higher study, teaching, dreams, and distant journeys. It therefore has a comparatively direct and self-consistent way of acting. Direct motion gives the planet a more continuous outward sequence, although dignity and place still decide its effectiveness. Its phase is Morning Last. It is oriental to the Sun in the configured calculation, adding a morning, initiating emphasis. Venus is in its own domicile chain and therefore does not need another planet for sign-level governance. [E33]

Mars — The Quarrel Among Friends

Mars is at Aries 11°00'41" in whole-sign house 8; essential condition: domicile; phasis: Free; not visible by the phasis test; domicile dispositor: Mars; 1 recorded maltreatment condition(s). [E36] In your life Mars governs anger, courage, competition, severance, conflict, and force. Conflict is not peripheral in your life: you are repeatedly required to contend, cut away, compete, or act under pressure. Because Mars has major essential authority, these matters are real capabilities: you can originate, organize, and recover their operation from your own resources. Its placement in shared resources, fear, and endings makes this concrete: its condition is delivered through fear, loss, debt, inheritance, intimacy, mortality, and dependence on resources controlled by others. It therefore has a comparatively direct and self-consistent way of acting. Direct motion gives the planet a more continuous outward sequence, although dignity and place still decide its effectiveness. Its phase is Free. It is oriental to the Sun in the configured calculation, adding a morning, initiating emphasis. Mars is in its own domicile chain and therefore does not need another planet for sign-level governance. [E36]

The hard testimony around Mars is explicit: Overcome by Saturn in the 10th sign (Superior/Dexter Square). (Aggravated by Sect). These afflictions make its difficult manifestations more frequent and costly; benefic intervention or reception can create help, but neither removes the affliction nor promises escape from its consequences. [E36]

Jupiter — The Fallen Giver

Jupiter is at Cancer 15°52'49" in whole-sign house 11; essential condition: exaltation; phasis: Free; visible by the phasis test; domicile dispositor: Moon; 2 recorded maltreatment condition(s). [E39] In your life Jupiter governs faith, judgment, teachers, patrons, children, generosity, and expansion. Growth comes through judgment, instruction, patronage, belief, and the ability to enlarge a field beyond its present limits. Because Jupiter has major essential authority, these matters are real capabilities: you can originate, organize, and recover their operation from your own resources. Its placement in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances makes this concrete: its condition is delivered through friends, patrons, alliances, groups, ambitions, and the gains or disappointments produced by them. It therefore has a comparatively direct and self-consistent way of acting. Direct motion gives the planet a more continuous outward sequence, although dignity and place still decide its effectiveness. Its phase is Free. It is occidental to the Sun in the configured calculation, adding an evening, responsive emphasis. Its domicile dispositor is Moon, so the planet's ability to deliver its topics ultimately depends on Moon's condition. [E39]

The hard testimony around Jupiter is explicit: Overcome by Mars in the 10th sign (Superior/Dexter Square). (Aggravated by Sect) (Mitigated by Benefic Intervention: -3 severity); Opposed by Saturn. (Within 8° orb) (Mitigated by Benefic Intervention: -3 severity). These afflictions make its difficult manifestations more frequent and costly; benefic intervention or reception can create help, but neither removes the affliction nor promises escape from its consequences. [E39]

Saturn — The Warden of Obligations

Saturn is at Capricorn 24°02'04" in whole-sign house 5; essential condition: domicile, bound; retrograde; phasis: Free; not visible by the phasis test; domicile dispositor: Saturn. [E44] Saturn is a malefic by nature, but the test Valens applies before the label is placement and sect, and Saturn passes both: it stands in its own place and is of the sect in favour. On that reckoning it is a giver of good things here, and indicative of greater rank and advancement - not of damage. The nature is the raw material; the placement decides. It therefore has a comparatively direct and self-consistent way of acting. Retrogradation turns its operation back on itself: repetition, revision, delay, return, or an indirect route belongs to the manner in which it acts. Retrogradation does not make the planet absent. Its phase is Free. It is oriental to the Sun in the configured calculation, adding a morning, initiating emphasis. Saturn is in its own domicile chain and therefore does not need another planet for sign-level governance. [E44]

The Configuration Pattern

The aspect pattern shows how these capacities negotiate with one another. Applying contacts describe combinations still pressing toward completion in the natal figure: Sun forms a Square with Moon at an orb of 9.29 degrees, applying. [E65] Moon forms a Sextile with Venus at an orb of 3.93 degrees, applying. [E67] Moon forms a Trine with Jupiter at an orb of 1.08 degrees, applying. [E68] Moon forms a Sextile with Saturn at an orb of 9.23 degrees, applying. [E69] Mercury forms a Sextile with Mars at an orb of 5.39 degrees, applying. [E70] Venus forms a Trine with Saturn at an orb of 5.31 degrees, applying. [E72] Mars forms a Square with Jupiter at an orb of 4.87 degrees, applying. [E73] Jupiter forms a Opposition with Saturn at an orb of 8.15 degrees, applying. [E74] Separating contacts remain part of the structure but describe combinations already moving apart: Moon forms a Square with Mercury at an orb of 9.18 degrees, separating. [E66] Venus forms a Sextile with Jupiter at an orb of 2.85 degrees, separating. [E71] Conjunction and opposition concentrate the exchange; square makes it more laborious; trine and sextile provide easier access. None of these geometries can be judged apart from the condition and topical rulership of both planets.

Aspect-by-Aspect Judgment

Sun and Moon: the square forces the operations to meet through friction, work, and repeated adjustment. It links direction, authority, visibility, and the organizing center in action, reputation, and career with adaptation, continuity, embodiment, and changing circumstance in partnership and open contest. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. Your will and your changing needs are fused rather than easily separated. Private conditions therefore affect confidence and direction more strongly than outsiders usually see. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E65] [E23] [E27]

Moon and Mercury: the square forces the operations to meet through friction, work, and repeated adjustment. It links adaptation, continuity, embodiment, and changing circumstance in partnership and open contest with reasoning, speech, exchange, craft, and mediation in action, reputation, and career. Because the contact is separating, it remains structural but has a releasing or already-formed quality. The matters of Moon and Mercury repeatedly obstruct one another and demand effort before either can produce a stable result. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E66] [E27] [E30]

Moon and Venus: the sextile opens a usable line of cooperation that still requires participation. It links adaptation, continuity, embodiment, and changing circumstance in partnership and open contest with union, agreement, attraction, pleasure, and social cohesion in religion, study, divination, and long journeys. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. You have a usable opportunity to coordinate Moon's matters with Venus's matters when you actively employ the connection. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E67] [E27] [E33]

Moon and Jupiter: the trine allows the operations to recognize and support one another with comparatively little resistance. It links adaptation, continuity, embodiment, and changing circumstance in partnership and open contest with increase, judgment, faith, patronage, and constructive breadth in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. You can combine Moon's matters with Jupiter's matters readily, sometimes so automatically that the ability is underestimated. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E68] [E27] [E39]

Moon and Saturn: the sextile opens a usable line of cooperation that still requires participation. It links adaptation, continuity, embodiment, and changing circumstance in partnership and open contest with limit, duration, responsibility, exclusion, and consolidation in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. You carry emotional weight for a long time and can function under deprivation, but familiarity with hardship can become a habit in its own right. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E69] [E27] [E44]

Mercury and Mars: the sextile opens a usable line of cooperation that still requires participation. It links reasoning, speech, exchange, craft, and mediation in action, reputation, and career with separation, contest, urgency, force, and decisive action in shared resources, fear, and endings. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. Your mind is quick in contest: speech can become a weapon, technical problems provoke action, and argument often clarifies what passive reflection does not. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E70] [E30] [E36]

Venus and Jupiter: the sextile opens a usable line of cooperation that still requires participation. It links union, agreement, attraction, pleasure, and social cohesion in religion, study, divination, and long journeys with increase, judgment, faith, patronage, and constructive breadth in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. Because the contact is separating, it remains structural but has a releasing or already-formed quality. Pleasure, affection, generosity, and expectation easily exceed their container; relationships and creative ventures can promise more than circumstances deliver. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E71] [E33] [E39]

Venus and Saturn: the trine allows the operations to recognize and support one another with comparatively little resistance. It links union, agreement, attraction, pleasure, and social cohesion in religion, study, divination, and long journeys with limit, duration, responsibility, exclusion, and consolidation in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. Love and friendship are tested by distance, duty, rejection, unequal burdens, or delay. Durable bonds are possible, but they are selected through disappointment rather than innocence. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E72] [E33] [E44]

Mars and Jupiter: the square forces the operations to meet through friction, work, and repeated adjustment. It links separation, contest, urgency, force, and decisive action in shared resources, fear, and endings with increase, judgment, faith, patronage, and constructive breadth in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. Conviction escalates conflict. You can fight hard for a belief or opportunity, but zeal, overreach, and conflict with allies are recurring hazards. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E73] [E36] [E39]

Jupiter and Saturn: the opposition places the operations across an axis that requires alternation, negotiation, or confrontation. It links increase, judgment, faith, patronage, and constructive breadth in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances with limit, duration, responsibility, exclusion, and consolidation in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. Because the contact is applying, the combination has a pressing, assembling quality in the natal structure. Expansion and contraction repeatedly cancel or correct one another. Growth tends to come late, after revision, loss of excess, or acceptance of a narrower but more durable form. Their relative condition produces a mixed result: the aspect operates, but neither geometry nor goodwill erases the weaker testimony. [E74] [E39] [E44]

The hard-contact network joins Sun, Moon, Mercury across houses 7, 10. This is a configuration, not a set of unrelated pairings: trouble entering any one planet travels through the others. You should expect the joined topics to become entangled in actual life; a dispute, loss, attachment, or opportunity in one house activates consequences in the others. Dignity and reception provide resources, but the network remains one of the chart's chief sources of conflict and consequential change. [E23] [E27] [E30]

The hard-contact network joins Mars, Jupiter, Saturn across houses 5, 8, 11. This is a configuration, not a set of unrelated pairings: trouble entering any one planet travels through the others. You should expect the joined topics to become entangled in actual life; a dispute, loss, attachment, or opportunity in one house activates consequences in the others. Dignity and reception provide resources, but the network remains one of the chart's chief sources of conflict and consequential change. [E36] [E39] [E44]

The most connected planet in the aspect graph is Moon, carrying 5 major contacts. It is an unavoidable distribution hub in your life: when it is activated, it draws several otherwise separate topics into the same period and makes their condition visible through events. [E27]

Antiscia: Configurations Through the Reflected Degree

Firmicus judges major aspects through reflected degrees like ordinary configurations. He gives no orb, so this report uses a disclosed one-degree limit. [E75]

The Moon-Jupiter antiscial square links habit, belonging, family life, the mother or caregiving figures, and changes of circumstance with faith, judgment, teachers, patrons, children, generosity, and expansion and must be weighed like an ordinary square. Orb: 0.68°. [E75] [E27] [E39]

The Mercury-Saturn antiscial opposition links judgment, speech, writing, calculation, trade, technical craft, and negotiation with fear, duty, delay, scarcity, endurance, age, exclusion, and lasting structures and must be weighed like an ordinary opposition. Orb: 0.35°. [E75] [E30] [E44]

The Venus-Mars antiscial trine links love, friendship, agreement, pleasure, art, and social attachment with anger, courage, competition, severance, conflict, and force and must be weighed like an ordinary trine. Orb: 0.26°. [E75] [E33] [E36]

Doryphory: The Luminaries and Their Attendants

Ptolemy places a bodily attendant in the luminary's own sign or the sign next following, with oriental stars serving the Sun and occidental stars serving the Moon. The prior fixed 30-degree shortcut was wrong and is no longer used. [E76]

Mercury is the Sun's spear-bearer: it is oriental and in the same sign, even though the bodies are 18.47 degrees apart. The guard occupies action, reputation, and career and is strong; the attended light occupies action, reputation, and career. Consequently judgment, speech, writing, calculation, trade, technical craft, and negotiation serve authority, purpose, honors, leadership, and the father or commanding figures: the guard gives the light a route to act through its own condition and place. The guard is angular, so the attendance has public force. [E76] [E30] [E23]

The Dispositor Architecture

The domicile-dispositor network is Sun: Sun -> Mercury (final dispositor); Moon: Moon -> Jupiter -> Moon (closed loop); Mercury: Mercury (final dispositor); Venus: Venus (final dispositor); Mars: Mars (final dispositor); Jupiter: Jupiter -> Moon -> Jupiter (closed loop); Saturn: Saturn (final dispositor). [E50]

Mercury is the terminal domicile ruler for Sun, and Mercury. This makes Mercury's condition a chart-wide bottleneck: when it is supported, several testimonies gain a route to act; when it is constrained, those same testimonies must work through its limitations. This is dependence, not cancellation. [E50]

Venus is the terminal domicile ruler for Venus. This makes Venus's condition a chart-wide bottleneck: when it is supported, several testimonies gain a route to act; when it is constrained, those same testimonies must work through its limitations. This is dependence, not cancellation. [E50]

Mars is the terminal domicile ruler for Mars. This makes Mars's condition a chart-wide bottleneck: when it is supported, several testimonies gain a route to act; when it is constrained, those same testimonies must work through its limitations. This is dependence, not cancellation. [E50]

Saturn is the terminal domicile ruler for Saturn. This makes Saturn's condition a chart-wide bottleneck: when it is supported, several testimonies gain a route to act; when it is constrained, those same testimonies must work through its limitations. This is dependence, not cancellation. [E50]

The chain Moon -> Jupiter -> Moon closes into a circuit. The planets exchange governance rather than reaching an independent final dispositor, so their topics remain mutually entangled. [E50]

The chain Jupiter -> Moon -> Jupiter closes into a circuit. The planets exchange governance rather than reaching an independent final dispositor, so their topics remain mutually entangled. [E50]

Reception adds a second question: whether one planet can host or assist another. Venus receives Moon by Exaltation, Triplicity; Moon receives Venus by Exaltation, Face. [E77] Jupiter receives Moon by Domicile, Face; Moon receives Jupiter by Domicile. [E78] Jupiter receives Venus by Term; Venus receives Jupiter by Triplicity. [E79] Assistance makes a difficult exchange more workable, but does not erase the planets' natal condition or ensure a favorable outcome.

Life Topics

Traditional topical judgment begins with the whole-sign place, its ruler, the ruler's condition and location, and planets occupying or aspecting the place. The following sections state the expected condition of each life topic directly. A difficult ruler means a difficult topic unless stronger, specifically identified testimony mitigates it.

The Life as a Whole

Mind, Character, and Agency

The helm is Mercury. It stands in Gemini in action, reputation, and career with a strong condition. This describes a person who must understand the mechanism, name distinctions, test claims, and retain intellectual control. The same faculty has a characteristic defect: analysis becomes argument, correction becomes severity, and the mind keeps working after the human situation is no longer solvable. Because the helm is strong, its operation is one of the native's most dependable sources of agency. [E51] [E30]

The Sun acts from action, reputation, and career, while the Moon acts from partnership and open contest. Purpose and changing circumstance therefore pull through different topics, and their aspect relationship decides whether those topics cooperate, alternate, or contend. [E23] [E27]

Parents, Home, and Foundations

The fourth place is Sagittarius and answers to Jupiter in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. The private foundation requires correction, return, or sustained effort before it becomes dependable. Home and ancestry provide a usable foundation, although the ruler's place shows where the family story continues to demand attention. Aversion separates the ruler from direct oversight, so consequences often become visible only after the matter has developed. The parental story must be divided between the two lights; neither one's strength nor the other's affliction cancels the separate testimony. [E54] [E23] [E27]

Love, Marriage, Sexuality, and Children

The seventh ruler is Jupiter in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. Partnership brings a real opening together with compromise, changed terms, or divided obligations. Venus is in Taurus in religion, study, divination, and long journeys with a strong condition, so love, agreement, pleasure, and attachment enter through that place. The ruler's condition describes whether a bond can carry its promise; Venus and its hard contacts describe how desire complicates the result. [E57] [E33]

The fifth place confirms that love, sex, pleasure, children, and creative work are joined to the same larger question of increase. Creative work, love affairs, pleasure, and children can become substantial sources of meaning and production. The ruler's retrogradation makes return, reversal, or a delayed second attempt part of the outcome. Saturn adds fear, duty, delay, scarcity, endurance, age, exclusion, and lasting structures. This does not deny children or creation; it says they arrive with more responsibility, reversal, expense, or fear than the initial desire admits. Durable creation is possible precisely because the chart can continue after the romance of beginning has failed. [E55]

Money, Allies, and Shared Obligations

Livelihood cannot be read as a private bank detached from relationships. The second ruler, Venus, acts from religion, study, divination, and long journeys; the eleventh ruler, Moon, governs friends, patrons, audiences, and gains; the eighth ruler, Mars, governs resources and burdens shared with others. This binds income to alliance. Friends, customers, collaborators, or a partner can create the opening, and the same network can create leakage, rivalry, unpaid labor, delayed payment, or obligations that survive the opportunity. The correct descriptive judgment is uneven accumulation: skill can earn, but attachment and shared burdens decide what is retained. [E52] [E58] [E61]

Career, Reputation, and the Work Worth Doing

The vocational judgment is not 'anything is possible.' The tenth place is Gemini, ruled by Mercury from action, reputation, and career. The first priority is analysis, writing, software or systems work, research, teaching, commerce, problem-finding, interpretation, and any craft where exact language or classification matters. Because the ruler is strong, advancement is most credible when you own the method and can show the work, not when status depends entirely on another person's favor. The ninth place adds study, doctrine, divination, teaching, or distant reach; the sixth describes the labor price. The strongest career is therefore expert work that converts hidden complexity into an intelligible system and eventually carries your name, even if much of its production happens privately. [E60] [E59] [E56] [E30]

The Twelve Places: Complete Reference

House 1: Self, Manner Of Action, And Embodied Presence

This place describes your manner, agency, appearance to others, and command of your own life. In this nativity it falls in Virgo and is ruled by Mercury from Gemini in house 10: developments in action, reputation, and career become the cause, setting, or consequence of self, manner of action, and embodied presence. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+7) and angular (house 10). This is one of the strongest areas of the nativity. You possess real leverage over self, manner of action, and embodied presence, and repeated activation of its ruler is likely to produce visible results. You are capable of taking command of your own course and are most effective when judgment, speech, and deliberate skill precede action. [E51]

House 2: Livelihood And Movable Resources

This place describes earnings, possessions, livelihood, and what can be retained or lost. In this nativity it falls in Libra and is ruled by Venus from Taurus in house 9: developments in religion, study, divination, and long journeys become the cause, setting, or consequence of livelihood and movable resources. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+12) and cadent (house 9). This area can produce what it promises, although results are more private, delayed, or dependent on the ruler's circumstances than they first appear. The ruler is in aversion to this place, so oversight is weak and consequences tend to emerge after the matter is already under way. Earnings and possessions are capable of growth through the ruler's people and places, but money is tied to relationship, alliance, or circumstance rather than existing as an isolated stream. Aversion separates the ruler from direct oversight, so consequences often become visible only after the matter has developed. [E52]

House 3: Siblings, Learning, Messages, And Local Movement

This place describes siblings, messages, study, short journeys, and the daily circulation of information. In this nativity it falls in Scorpio and is ruled by Mars from Aries in house 8: developments in shared resources, fear, and endings become the cause, setting, or consequence of siblings, learning, messages, and local movement. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+5), succedent (house 8), and recorded maltreatment conditions (1). This area is mixed: it delivers both advantage and difficulty, making siblings, learning, messages, and local movement a recurring field of negotiation rather than a settled possession. The ruler is in aversion to this place, so oversight is weak and consequences tend to emerge after the matter is already under way. Learning, writing, messages, and short journeys become practical instruments of advancement; siblings and peers are consequential participants in the story. Aversion separates the ruler from direct oversight, so consequences often become visible only after the matter has developed. [E53]

House 4: Home, Ancestry, Land, And Foundations

This place describes home, land, ancestry, parents, foundations, and the condition of life's endings. In this nativity it falls in Sagittarius and is ruled by Jupiter from Cancer in house 11: developments in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances become the cause, setting, or consequence of home, ancestry, land, and foundations. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+9), succedent (house 11), and recorded maltreatment conditions (2). This area is mixed: it delivers both advantage and difficulty, making home, ancestry, land, and foundations a recurring field of negotiation rather than a settled possession. The ruler is in aversion to this place, so oversight is weak and consequences tend to emerge after the matter is already under way. Home and ancestry provide a usable foundation, although the ruler's place shows where the family story continues to demand attention. Aversion separates the ruler from direct oversight, so consequences often become visible only after the matter has developed. [E54]

House 5: Creative Work, Pleasure, Gifts, And Children

This place describes children, creative production, pleasure, gifts, sexuality, and ventures undertaken for joy. In this nativity it falls in Capricorn and is ruled by Saturn from Capricorn in house 5: developments in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children become the cause, setting, or consequence of creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+7), succedent (house 5), and retrograde. This area can produce what it promises, although results are more private, delayed, or dependent on the ruler's circumstances than they first appear. Saturn also occupies the place and delivers its testimony directly. Creative work, love affairs, pleasure, and children can become substantial sources of meaning and production. The ruler's retrogradation makes return, reversal, or a delayed second attempt part of the outcome. Saturn adds fear, duty, delay, scarcity, endurance, age, exclusion, and lasting structures. [E55]

House 6: Labor, Service, Dependency, Toil, And Burdens

This is a place of illness, exhausting labor, service, dependency, subordinates, and burdens that do not confer rank. In this nativity it falls in Aquarius and is ruled by Saturn from Capricorn in house 5: developments in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children become the cause, setting, or consequence of labor, service, dependency, toil, and burdens. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+7), succedent (house 5), and retrograde. This area can produce what it promises, although results are more private, delayed, or dependent on the ruler's circumstances than they first appear. The ruler is in aversion to this place, so oversight is weak and consequences tend to emerge after the matter is already under way. You can master demanding work and service, but this place still signifies labor performed under necessity rather than honor. The ruler's retrogradation makes return, reversal, or a delayed second attempt part of the outcome. Aversion separates the ruler from direct oversight, so consequences often become visible only after the matter has developed. [E56]

House 7: Partnership And Open Contest

This place describes marriage, binding partnership, contracts, opponents, and people who meet you face-to-face. In this nativity it falls in Pisces and is ruled by Jupiter from Cancer in house 11: developments in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances become the cause, setting, or consequence of partnership and open contest. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+9), succedent (house 11), and recorded maltreatment conditions (2). This area is mixed: it delivers both advantage and difficulty, making partnership and open contest a recurring field of negotiation rather than a settled possession. Moon also occupies the place and delivers its testimony directly. Partnership is capable of becoming a major vehicle of opportunity, and important people materially redirect the life. Moon adds habit, belonging, family life, the mother or caregiving figures, and changes of circumstance. [E57]

House 8: Shared Obligations, Inheritance, Fear, And Endings

This is a place of death, fear, debt, inheritance, other people's resources, and obligations that reduce personal freedom. In this nativity it falls in Aries and is ruled by Mars from Aries in house 8: developments in shared resources, fear, and endings become the cause, setting, or consequence of shared obligations, inheritance, fear, and endings. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+5), succedent (house 8), and recorded maltreatment conditions (1). This area is mixed: it delivers both advantage and difficulty, making shared obligations, inheritance, fear, and endings a recurring field of negotiation rather than a settled possession. Mars also occupies the place and delivers its testimony directly. Inheritance, shared resources, and other people's support can become operative, although they always arrive with obligation and reduced freedom. Mars adds anger, courage, competition, severance, conflict, and force. [E58]

House 9: Religion, Study, Divination, And Long Journeys

This place describes religion, divination, higher learning, law as a field of study, dreams, and long journeys. In this nativity it falls in Taurus and is ruled by Venus from Taurus in house 9: developments in religion, study, divination, and long journeys become the cause, setting, or consequence of religion, study, divination, and long journeys. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+12) and cadent (house 9). This area can produce what it promises, although results are more private, delayed, or dependent on the ruler's circumstances than they first appear. Venus also occupies the place and delivers its testimony directly. Religion, divination, higher study, teaching, and distant travel are capable of producing real advantage and a coherent philosophy of life. Venus adds love, friendship, agreement, pleasure, art, and social attachment. [E59]

House 10: Action, Rank, Reputation, And Career

This place describes career, rank, action in the world, reputation, superiors, and what becomes publicly known. In this nativity it falls in Gemini and is ruled by Mercury from Gemini in house 10: developments in action, reputation, and career become the cause, setting, or consequence of action, rank, reputation, and career. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+7) and angular (house 10). This is one of the strongest areas of the nativity. You possess real leverage over action, rank, reputation, and career, and repeated activation of its ruler is likely to produce visible results. Sun, Mercury also occupy the place and deliver their testimony directly. Career is a commanding part of the nativity. Skill, judgment, and the ruler's natural work can produce rank, recognition, and visible responsibility. Sun adds authority, purpose, honors, leadership, and the father or commanding figures; Mercury adds judgment, speech, writing, calculation, trade, technical craft, and negotiation. [E60]

House 11: Friends, Patrons, Hopes, And Alliances

This place describes friends, patrons, alliances, hopes, honors received from others, and the gains of one's work. In this nativity it falls in Cancer and is ruled by Moon from Pisces in house 7: developments in partnership and open contest become the cause, setting, or consequence of friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. The ruler has essential dignity strong (+10) and angular (house 7). This is one of the strongest areas of the nativity. You possess real leverage over friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances, and repeated activation of its ruler is likely to produce visible results. Jupiter also occupies the place and delivers its testimony directly. Friends, patrons, and alliances can produce real gains, but the occupants and ruler determine whether those gains endure. Jupiter adds faith, judgment, teachers, patrons, children, generosity, and expansion. [E61]

House 12: Retreat, Confinement, Loss, And Hidden Difficulty

This is a place of isolation, hidden enemies, confinement, self-undoing, grief, and work conducted outside public view. In this nativity it falls in Leo and is ruled by Sun from Gemini in house 10: developments in action, reputation, and career become the cause, setting, or consequence of retreat, confinement, loss, and hidden difficulty. The ruler has minor essential dignity (+1) and angular (house 10). This area can produce what it promises, although results are more private, delayed, or dependent on the ruler's circumstances than they first appear. Solitude and work outside public view are powerful and productive in this nativity; private command can exceed visible command. [E62]

The Houses That Share a Ruler

Houses 1, 10 share Mercury as ruler, joining self, manner of action, and embodied presence, action, rank, reputation, and career. A change in Mercury's condition or activation therefore speaks through all of these places at once. This is one of the chart's strongest connective principles and is more informative than reading each house in isolation. [E51] [E60]

Houses 2, 9 share Venus as ruler, joining livelihood and movable resources, religion, study, divination, and long journeys. A change in Venus's condition or activation therefore speaks through all of these places at once. This is one of the chart's strongest connective principles and is more informative than reading each house in isolation. [E52] [E59]

Houses 3, 8 share Mars as ruler, joining siblings, learning, messages, and local movement, shared obligations, inheritance, fear, and endings. A change in Mars's condition or activation therefore speaks through all of these places at once. This is one of the chart's strongest connective principles and is more informative than reading each house in isolation. [E53] [E58]

Houses 4, 7 share Jupiter as ruler, joining home, ancestry, land, and foundations, partnership and open contest. A change in Jupiter's condition or activation therefore speaks through all of these places at once. This is one of the chart's strongest connective principles and is more informative than reading each house in isolation. [E54] [E57]

Houses 5, 6 share Saturn as ruler, joining creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children, labor, service, dependency, toil, and burdens. A change in Saturn's condition or activation therefore speaks through all of these places at once. This is one of the chart's strongest connective principles and is more informative than reading each house in isolation. [E55] [E56]

The Lots: Fortune, Intention, and Derived Topics

The lots are mathematical points derived from the Ascendant and planets. They do not act like additional planets. Their meaning is carried by place, ruler, and the ruler's natal condition.

Paulus defines the Lot of Fortune through body, life-course, possessions, reputation, and privilege. The Lot of Fortune is at Gemini 05°27'14" in whole-sign house 10, ruled by Mercury; the recorded condition is Clear. [E80] In action, reputation, and career, circumstance, bodily life, possessions, and public allotment are delivered through this place. Mercury rules from action, reputation, and career in a strong condition. That condition decides whether the lot's field can be directed, must negotiate a price, or repeatedly suffers obstruction. No maltreatment status is recorded for the lot itself; its ruler and configurations still control the outcome. [E80] [E30]

Paulus defines the Lot of Spirit through soul, temper, mindfulness, power, and deliberate action. The Lot of Spirit is at Sagittarius 24°01'50" in whole-sign house 4, ruled by Jupiter; the recorded condition is Ruler Maltreated. [E81] In home and foundations, choice, intention, command, and the work deliberately undertaken are delivered through this place. Jupiter rules from friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances in a strong condition. That condition decides whether the lot's field can be directed, must negotiate a price, or repeatedly suffers obstruction. The recorded maltreatment makes reversal, loss, conflict, or a result controlled by another person more reliable than the clean promise. [E81] [E39]

Paulus defines the Lot of Eros through appetite, voluntary desire, friendship, and mutual favor. The Lot of Eros is at Aquarius 09°26'25" in whole-sign house 6, ruled by Saturn; the recorded condition is Clear. [E82] In labor, service, and burdens, desire, friendship, appetite, and voluntarily chosen attachments are delivered through this place. Saturn rules from creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children in a strong condition. That condition decides whether the lot's field can be directed, must negotiate a price, or repeatedly suffers obstruction. No maltreatment status is recorded for the lot itself; its ruler and configurations still control the outcome. [E82] [E44]

Paulus defines the Lot of Necessity through constraint, submission, struggle, war, enmity, hatred, condemnation, and restriction. The Lot of Necessity is at Virgo 14°34'37" in whole-sign house 1, ruled by Mercury; the recorded condition is Clear. [E83] In self and embodied presence, constraint, compulsion, enmity, and circumstances that reduce freedom are delivered through this place. Mercury rules from action, reputation, and career in a strong condition. That condition decides whether the lot's field can be directed, must negotiate a price, or repeatedly suffers obstruction. No maltreatment status is recorded for the lot itself; its ruler and configurations still control the outcome. [E83] [E30]

Paulus defines the Lot of Courage through boldness, treachery, might, and villainy. The Lot of Courage is at Scorpio 09°11'06" in whole-sign house 3, ruled by Mars; the recorded condition is Ruler Maltreated. [E84] In learning, messages, siblings, and local movement, boldness, force, betrayal, and the consequences of risk are delivered through this place. Mars rules from shared resources, fear, and endings in a strong condition. That condition decides whether the lot's field can be directed, must negotiate a price, or repeatedly suffers obstruction. The recorded maltreatment makes reversal, loss, conflict, or a result controlled by another person more reliable than the clean promise. [E84] [E36]

Paulus defines the Lot of Victory through trust, expectation, contest, association, penalties, and rewards. The Lot of Victory is at Aries 06°35'32" in whole-sign house 8, ruled by Mars; the recorded condition is Lot Maltreated / Ruler Maltreated. [E85] In shared resources, fear, and endings, contest, trust, penalties, rewards, and the expectation of success are delivered through this place. Mars rules from shared resources, fear, and endings in a strong condition. That condition decides whether the lot's field can be directed, must negotiate a price, or repeatedly suffers obstruction. The recorded maltreatment makes reversal, loss, conflict, or a result controlled by another person more reliable than the clean promise. [E85] [E36]

Paulus defines the Lot of Nemesis through subterranean and cold fates, impotence, exile, destruction, grief, and the quality of death. The Lot of Nemesis is at Capricorn 26°09'43" in whole-sign house 5, ruled by Saturn; the recorded condition is Clear. [E86] In creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children, grief, deprivation, exile, destruction, and the cold consequences of reversal are delivered through this place. Saturn rules from creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children in a strong condition. That condition decides whether the lot's field can be directed, must negotiate a price, or repeatedly suffers obstruction. No maltreatment status is recorded for the lot itself; its ruler and configurations still control the outcome. [E86] [E44]

Significator of Manners (Lilly, Christian Astrology III.CVII-CVIII)

Jupiter is the significator of manners, selected by rule 5 of five (holding most essential dignity in the places of the Moon and Mercury). Ill-dignified Jupiter reads: self-loving in an open-hearted way but obscure and imperfect, or scornful, superstitious, prodigal. [E18]

Significator of Profession (Lilly, Christian Astrology III.CXLVIII-CXLIX)

Mercury is the significator of profession, selected by rule 1 of five (posited in an angle, in his own domicile or exaltation, clear of the Sun). Mercury stands in a good aspect to Mars, which by Lilly's own mixture rule means the trade may follow Mars's signification as well as Mercury's. [E19]

Lunar Phase and Prenatal Syzygy

The prenatal syzygy was a Full at Sagittarius 17°24'05" on 1990-06-08T11:01:08Z; at birth the Moon was waning, 99.29 degrees from the Sun. [E88]

A waning Moon carries the cycle from culmination toward release and renewal, while the prenatal Full supplies the lunation background inherited by the nativity. Because the Moon is also a planet with its own dignity, place, dispositor, and aspects, phase is a modifier rather than a complete judgment. [E88]

Vitality: Hyleg, Alcocoden, and the Allotment of Years

The old authors selected a giver of life (Hyleg) and a giver of years (Alcocoden) to judge the constitution: how robust the vital force is, where it is supported, and where it is undermined. They also produced a number of years. This report publishes that arithmetic in full, but it does not present it as a date of death, and you should not read it as one. The reason is empirical rather than squeamish: applied mechanically to real nativities, the numeric step is frequently falsified by the native's own survival, and Lilly himself writes that the Hyleg, Alcocoden, and Anareta cannot always be determined with certainty. What survives that scrutiny is the constitutional testimony — which planet carries the vital force, in what condition, and what presses on it. That is what is judged below. [E63] [E64]

The configured Hyleg is Sun at 84.09°. This is the giver of life used by both branches below; changing the Hyleg would change the entire calculation and must not be done silently in prose. [E63]

Branch One — Saturn Gives 51.5 Years

The strict-bound branch makes Saturn Alcocoden. Saturn is the bound lord used at the Hyleg and is admitted through configured aspect rule. It assigns the mean planetary-years value: 51.5 years. Its ledger reads: Base: Mean Years of Saturn (43.5) by placement in House 5 (al-Biruni §522); recorded essential dignity 7; Added 8.0 (Venus Trine). The computed judgment of this branch is therefore a lifetime of 51.5 years. [E63] [E64]

Branch Two — Sun Gives 120 Years

The dignity-points and degree-aspect branch instead selects Sun, which actually casts the recorded conjunction to the Hyleg. It begins with 120 major years. Its ledger reads: Base: Major Years of Sun (120) by placement in House 10 (al-Biruni §522); recorded essential dignity 1. The resulting figure is 120 years and remains a competing numerical judgment. Both viable branches must remain visible because the method has not supplied a reason to suppress either one. [E63] [E64]

The Judgment Between the Branches

The internally viable result or results are: Saturn gives 51.5 years; Sun gives 120 years. Lilly himself says that the Hyleg, Anareta, and Alcocoden cannot always be selected with certainty. The truthful judgment therefore states the emitted years, the failed rivals, and the aspect mode without turning a branch into a fixed date of death. [E63] [E64]

The static Anareta test finds no qualifying body: No tight hard aspect from malefics or 8th-house ruler to the Hyleg degree found. [E64]

The configured directional screen nevertheless identifies Saturn in opposition to the Hyleg at age 33.20, approximately 33y 2m. This is the model's anaretic candidate window. It is not identical to the numerical allotments above and the direction model is the project's disclosed, partial zodiacal oblique-ascension implementation rather than a complete Placidus semi-arc direction. [E64]

The Secondary Doctrine and Derived Degrees

The main judgment is already complete. The following techniques are retained because they either confirm it, qualify it, or expose a real disagreement; none is allowed to replace the natal planets, places, and rulers.

Planetary Joys Present in This Nativity

Jupiter is in whole-sign house 11, its planetary joy. [E40] This place-based affinity reinforces Jupiter's ability to perform its natural work in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. Here it operates alongside exaltation essential condition, motion, visibility, aspects, and rulerships; the joy strengthens the testimony without becoming an override. [E39]

Hayz and Halb

Hayz and halb refine sect through the planet's actual position above or below ground. Halb is the horizon accord; hayz adds agreement between planetary and sign gender. Mercury is not forced into either family because the inspected source makes its classification conditional.

Sun is in Hayz: it is above the horizon at 59.46 degrees altitude, and the configured gender agreement is True. [E24] The full agreement gives the planet a more coherent accidental setting in which to perform its own nature. Its face essential condition, house, motion, visibility, and aspects still control what that support can accomplish. [E23]

Jupiter is in Halb: it is above the horizon at 48.48 degrees altitude, and the configured gender agreement is False. [E41] The horizon agreement supplies partial accidental support, while sign gender does not complete hayz. Its exaltation essential condition, house, motion, visibility, and aspects still control what that support can accomplish. [E39]

Twelfth-Parts: A Visible Method Fork

The twelfth-part projects a planet's degree into a secondary zodiacal position. Paulus' thirteen-fold instruction is text-verified; the twelve-fold calculation remains a configured variant whose legacy attribution to Valens is unresolved. Both are shown because concealing the disagreement would create false precision.

Sun: By Configured standard (x12; attribution unresolved), Sun's twelfth-part is Pisces 19°04'38" in whole-sign house 7, in the Egyptian bound used here of Mars. [E25] By Paulus (x13), Sun's twelfth-part is Aries 13°10'01" in whole-sign house 8, in the Egyptian bound used here of Mercury. [E26] The methods diverge: x12 gives Pisces in house 7, while Paulus x13 gives Aries in house 8. No single derived-place judgment is allowed here; the difference is itself the doctrinal result. The natal planet remains primary, and the twelfth-part can only qualify its already-established condition. [E23]

Moon: By Configured standard (x12; attribution unresolved), Moon's twelfth-part is Leo 27°37'05" in whole-sign house 12, in the Egyptian bound used here of Mars. [E28] By Paulus (x13), Moon's twelfth-part is Virgo 12°25'11" in whole-sign house 1, in the Egyptian bound used here of Venus. [E29] The methods diverge: x12 gives Leo in house 12, while Paulus x13 gives Virgo in house 1. No single derived-place judgment is allowed here; the difference is itself the doctrinal result. The natal planet remains primary, and the twelfth-part can only qualify its already-established condition. [E27]

Mercury: By Configured standard (x12; attribution unresolved), Mercury's twelfth-part is Leo 07°25'52" in whole-sign house 12, in the Egyptian bound used here of Venus. [E31] By Paulus (x13), Mercury's twelfth-part is Leo 13°03'01" in whole-sign house 12, in the Egyptian bound used here of Saturn. [E32] Both methods place the projection in Leo, house 12. The agreement makes that secondary place stable across this particular fork, although the exact degree changes the bound ruler from Venus to Saturn. The natal planet remains primary, and the twelfth-part can only qualify its already-established condition. [E30]

Venus: By Configured standard (x12; attribution unresolved), Venus's twelfth-part is Sagittarius 14°44'36" in whole-sign house 4, in the Egyptian bound used here of Venus. [E34] By Paulus (x13), Venus's twelfth-part is Capricorn 03°28'19" in whole-sign house 5, in the Egyptian bound used here of Mercury. [E35] The methods diverge: x12 gives Sagittarius in house 4, while Paulus x13 gives Capricorn in house 5. No single derived-place judgment is allowed here; the difference is itself the doctrinal result. The natal planet remains primary, and the twelfth-part can only qualify its already-established condition. [E33]

Mars: By Configured standard (x12; attribution unresolved), Mars's twelfth-part is Leo 12°08'11" in whole-sign house 12, in the Egyptian bound used here of Saturn. [E37] By Paulus (x13), Mars's twelfth-part is Leo 23°08'51" in whole-sign house 12, in the Egyptian bound used here of Mercury. [E38] Both methods place the projection in Leo, house 12. The agreement makes that secondary place stable across this particular fork, although the exact degree changes the bound ruler from Saturn to Mercury. The natal planet remains primary, and the twelfth-part can only qualify its already-established condition. [E36]

Jupiter: By Configured standard (x12; attribution unresolved), Jupiter's twelfth-part is Capricorn 10°33'54" in whole-sign house 5, in the Egyptian bound used here of Jupiter. [E42] By Paulus (x13), Jupiter's twelfth-part is Capricorn 26°26'43" in whole-sign house 5, in the Egyptian bound used here of Mars. [E43] Both methods place the projection in Capricorn, house 5. The agreement makes that secondary place stable across this particular fork, although the exact degree changes the bound ruler from Jupiter to Mars. The natal planet remains primary, and the twelfth-part can only qualify its already-established condition. [E39]

Saturn: By Configured standard (x12; attribution unresolved), Saturn's twelfth-part is Libra 18°24'46" in whole-sign house 2, in the Egyptian bound used here of Jupiter. [E45] By Paulus (x13), Saturn's twelfth-part is Scorpio 12°26'50" in whole-sign house 3, in the Egyptian bound used here of Mercury. [E46] The methods diverge: x12 gives Libra in house 2, while Paulus x13 gives Scorpio in house 3. No single derived-place judgment is allowed here; the difference is itself the doctrinal result. The natal planet remains primary, and the twelfth-part can only qualify its already-established condition. [E44]

Monomoiria: The Ruler of Each Degree

Paulus's sign-based degree rulers are Sun at Gemini 24°05'23" ruled by Jupiter; Moon at Pisces 14°48'05" ruled by Jupiter; Mercury at Gemini 05°37'09" ruled by Sun; Venus at Taurus 18°43'43" ruled by Jupiter; Mars at Aries 11°00'41" ruled by Moon; Jupiter at Cancer 15°52'49" ruled by Saturn; Saturn at Capricorn 24°02'04" ruled by Sun. [E47]

Sun's degree is governed by Jupiter. Consequently authority, purpose, honors, leadership, and the father or commanding figures must obtain secondary permission through faith, judgment, teachers, patrons, children, generosity, and expansion. Because Jupiter is strong and placed in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances, that condition enters Sun's results. [E47] [E23] [E39]

Moon's degree is governed by Jupiter. Consequently habit, belonging, family life, the mother or caregiving figures, and changes of circumstance must obtain secondary permission through faith, judgment, teachers, patrons, children, generosity, and expansion. Because Jupiter is strong and placed in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances, that condition enters Moon's results. [E47] [E27] [E39]

Mercury's degree is governed by Sun. Consequently judgment, speech, writing, calculation, trade, technical craft, and negotiation must obtain secondary permission through authority, purpose, honors, leadership, and the father or commanding figures. Because Sun is mixed and placed in action, reputation, and career, that condition enters Mercury's results. [E47] [E30] [E23]

Venus's degree is governed by Jupiter. Consequently love, friendship, agreement, pleasure, art, and social attachment must obtain secondary permission through faith, judgment, teachers, patrons, children, generosity, and expansion. Because Jupiter is strong and placed in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances, that condition enters Venus's results. [E47] [E33] [E39]

Mars's degree is governed by Moon. Consequently anger, courage, competition, severance, conflict, and force must obtain secondary permission through habit, belonging, family life, the mother or caregiving figures, and changes of circumstance. Because Moon is mixed and placed in partnership and open contest, that condition enters Mars's results. [E47] [E36] [E27]

Jupiter's degree is governed by Saturn. Consequently faith, judgment, teachers, patrons, children, generosity, and expansion must obtain secondary permission through fear, duty, delay, scarcity, endurance, age, exclusion, and lasting structures. Because Saturn is strong and placed in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children, that condition enters Jupiter's results. [E47] [E39] [E44]

Saturn's degree is governed by Sun. Consequently fear, duty, delay, scarcity, endurance, age, exclusion, and lasting structures must obtain secondary permission through authority, purpose, honors, leadership, and the father or commanding figures. Because Sun is mixed and placed in action, reputation, and career, that condition enters Saturn's results. [E47] [E44] [E23]

Paulus describes degree mastership but does not assign the modern project score of one point. Where a self-ruled monomoiria contributes +1 to an internal ranking, that number is a disclosed configured weighting rather than a quotation from Paulus. [E47]

For this DAY nativity, the sect light Sun at Gemini 24°05'23" has Sun as its trigonal monomoiria ruler. [E48] This canon belongs to the sect light alone. In this chart it makes Sun the degree-level trigonal master of Sun; it is not attached to the other six planets. Because the sect light and its trigonal degree ruler are the same planet, the chart's central light has unusually concentrated degree-level command. [E48]

The Bounds of the Degrees (Valens I.3)

Valens delineates each of the sixty bounds individually. What follows is the substrate of the degrees themselves, not a verdict on you. Valens closes the chapter by saying he set the degrees out one at a time for teaching, and that in a real nativity the domicile lord lying over them decides whether what the degree carries comes out base or good. Read every line below under that condition, and against placement and sect, which outweigh it.

Sun stands in Gemini, in the bound of Saturn. Valens delineates that bound: gracious, administrative, acquisitive, intellectual, much-known, notable, distinguished in understanding, most renowned. [E6]

Moon stands in Pisces, in the bound of Jupiter. Valens delineates that bound: of lovers of learning and men of science, distinguished in crowds and prevailing in all discourse; many-brothered, many-childed. [E7]

Mercury stands in Gemini, in the bound of Mercury. Valens delineates that bound: gracious, well-set, intelligent, of many arts, scientific, practical, celebrated, many-seeded. [E8]

Venus stands in Taurus, in the bound of Jupiter. Valens delineates that bound: great-minded, manly, ruling and beneficent, great-souled, gracious. [E9]

Mars stands in Aries, in the bound of Venus. Valens delineates that bound: cheerful, skilled in art, distinguished, complete, clean, of good complexion. [E10]

Jupiter stands in Cancer, in the bound of Mercury. Valens delineates that bound: exact, rapacious, leaders of public affairs, tax-collecting, popular, well-off, accumulators of substance. [E11]

Saturn stands in Capricorn, in the bound of Saturn. Valens delineates that bound: austere, joyless, strange, ill-childed, ill-brothered, raw, corrupting, very cold, envious, hesitating, guileful. [E12]

The Ascendant stands in Virgo, in the bound of Venus. Valens delineates that bound: blameworthy, erring about marriages and falling into trouble on that account; but fortunate about theatrical matters; and most shameful about the afflictions, especially when Saturn bears witness with them. [E22]

The Causative Place (Valens V.1)

The causative place (Saturn-Mars, projected from the Ascendant by sect) falls in Sagittarius at 241.72 degrees. Neither malefic owns that sign; Valens's own test for whether this place is active is silent here. [E16]

Lilly's Degree Qualities

The chart's table entries are Sun at one-based Gemini degree 25 (dark); Moon at one-based Pisces degree 15 (dark); Mercury at one-based Gemini degree 6 (dark); Venus at one-based Taurus degree 19 (void); Mars at one-based Aries degree 12 (dark); Jupiter at one-based Cancer degree 16 (void); Saturn at one-based Capricorn degree 25 (void); Ascendant at one-based Virgo degree 15 (light); Midheaven at one-based Gemini degree 10 (light); Lot of Fortune at one-based Gemini degree 6 (dark). [E49]

Moon is one of the signifiers to which Lilly actually applies this column. Lilly gives the dark degree a darker or more obscure outward cast and treats existing imperfections as more conspicuous. This is Lilly's seventeenth-century physical and horary vocabulary, preserved as his judgment rather than converted into a modern identity category. [E49]

Ascendant is one of the significators to which Lilly actually applies this column. Lilly gives the light degree a fairer, clearer, and more capable expression. This is Lilly's seventeenth-century physical and horary vocabulary, preserved as his judgment rather than converted into a modern identity category. [E49]

None of the calculated second-ruler, Jupiter, or Fortune entries falls in an increasing-fortune degree, so this table adds no special wealth testimony. [E49]

The masculine/feminine column is retained in the audit data. Lilly uses it to answer the sex of an unknown person or unborn child when other testimonies are equal; it is not a general personality classification and has no independent natal judgment here. [E49]

The Moon's Mansion: What the Source Does and Does Not Say

The Moon at Pisces 14°48'05" calculates to tropical mansion 27, Al-Fargh al-Thani (Azobra in the inspected Picatrix translation). [E87] The assignment is retained as a configured tropical calculation and is not treated as an independent natal proof.

The truth of the source is narrower than modern natal mansion writing. Picatrix tells the practitioner when to fashion images or undertake elections. It does not say that a person born under this mansion has the corresponding electional traits or that its listed operations will happen to the native. Therefore no honest natal prediction is extracted from the mansion label. The Moon is judged natively through its sign, place, ruler, phase, and admitted configurations—not through invented mansion personality keywords. [E87]

The Present Chapter

Timing activates the events promised by the nativity. One clock gives a broad subject; repetition across profection, Firdaria, releasing, decennials, and the solar return makes manifestation more likely. The report therefore names the probable event fields and distinguishes ordinary activation from severe convergence.

Sect-Light Fortune and the Course of Life

For this Day nativity, Dorotheus's sect-light triplicity judgment uses Saturn first and Mercury second, with Jupiter participating. The first and second rulers describe the beginning and later outcome of fortune/property; the participant supports the whole judgment rather than ruling an invented final third of life. [E89]

The first ruler is Saturn in house 5, a good place; the second is Mercury in house 10, a good place. Dorotheus gives the strongest temporal verdict here: excellence, elevation, and material support can continue from the beginning through the later course of life. For you, this ties the beginning to creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children and the later outcome to action, reputation, and career. [E89] [E44] [E30]

Jupiter, the participating ruler, is in house 11 with exaltation. It modifies the whole fortune judgment through friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances; it does not govern a fixed late-life third. [E89] [E39]

In a later medieval method, Ibn Ezra explicitly divides the sect-light triplicity rulers into three relative life phases: Saturn first, Mercury middle, and Jupiter last. This is a distinct later doctrine, not the wording of Dorotheus's first/second fortune judgment. [E90]

The first relative phase belongs to Saturn in house 5, a strong ruler, so it is organized through creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children and brings delay, duty, isolation, scarcity, fear, older people, debts or shared burdens, endings, and structures that endure pressure over time. [E90] [E44]

The middle relative phase belongs to Mercury in house 10, a strong ruler, so it is organized through action, reputation, and career and brings study, writing, trade, negotiation, technical work, documents, travel, calculation, and decisions that redirect your public course. [E90] [E30]

The last relative phase belongs to Jupiter in house 11, a strong ruler, so it is organized through friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances and brings teachers, patrons, children, creative ventures, belief, education, travel, generosity, and opportunities that enlarge responsibility. [E90] [E39]

These are relative phases only. Their exact boundaries are not invented here; the separate Hyleg and Alcocoden chapter publishes the numerical longevity branches that the engine actually calculated. The later Ibn Ezra phase scheme is shown beside, not substituted for, Dorotheus's different first/second fortune rule. [E90]

The Active Time Lords

Annual Profection

At age 36, the annual profection is Virgo and the Lord of the Year is Mercury. [E91]

This birthday year activates self, manner of action, and embodied presence, and Mercury carries the year from a strong natal condition. The year's most likely manifestations are study, writing, trade, negotiation, technical work, documents, travel, calculation, and decisions that redirect your public course. Because the ruler is natively placed in action, reputation, and career, events in that field become the route through which the profected topic is delivered. [E91]

Interpretive Constraint

Any verdict on this period is bounded by the foundation of the nativity itself. Valens states it three times across three books: whatever figure the stars make at the birth, according to the foundation of the casting, is what they accomplish when they become lords of the times. A strong foundation under difficult times produces disorder, blame and fear rather than catastrophe; a weak one under favourable times does not produce greatness. And nothing arrives unmixed - even a strong benefic period, he says, brings its action or reputation together with oppositions and expenditures. [E92]

Ascendant Prorogation and Distributor

The configured Ascendant prorogation places the directed Ascendant at 189.93 degrees, in the bound of Mercury. The participating planet is Mercury because Last directed ray: Mercury Trine (Dexter) at age 30.06. The configured model solves the bound period from age 30.17 (2020-08-13) until Jupiter takes over at age 41.53 (2031-12-23). [E94]

The Ascendant prorogation concerns your manner of proceeding, movement, travel, residence, and the circumstances that act directly upon you. Mercury distributes the present stretch from configured age 30.17 (2020-08-13) until age 41.53 (2031-12-23). Mercury is strong and natively placed in action, reputation, and career; its period therefore brings study, writing, trade, negotiation, technical work, documents, travel, calculation, and decisions that redirect your public course into events that alter your immediate course. [E94]

Mercury participates because it cast the last calculated ray to reach the Ascendant prorogation, not because the engine selected an arbitrary present-time orb. Mercury is strong in action, reputation, and career. It modifies the Mercury period through study, writing, trade, negotiation, technical work, documents, travel, calculation, and decisions that redirect your public course, but it does not replace the distributor. The numerically solved configured transition gives Jupiter at age 41.53 (2031-12-23). [E94]

This is the source-audited Ascendant distributor layer, not the entire primary-direction system. The report does not disguise the configured one-degree key, Egyptian bound table, numerical boundary solving, or latitude-free zodiacal aspect points as a complete Placidus semi-arc calculation. [E94]

Firdaria

The current Firdaria rulers are Moon major and Sun sub, active from 2026-08-06 through 2027-11-19. [E95]

This period makes changes of residence or family circumstance, fluctuating alliances, travel or movement, caregiving demands, and reversals of habit, filtered through changes of authority, leadership, reputation, relations with commanding figures, and action from your own purpose recurrent rather than incidental. The major lord supplies the long chapter; the sub-lord describes the people, circumstances, and immediate occasions through which it becomes concrete. [E95]

Zodiacal Releasing from Spirit

Zodiacal Releasing from Spirit is currently Capricorn / Scorpio / Leo / Aquarius; the level-two chapter runs from 2025-07-11 through 2026-10-04; recorded status: Normal. [E97]

The nested bounds are L2 2025-07-11 to 2026-10-04; L3 2026-08-25 to 2026-10-04; L4 2026-09-15T12:00:00 to 2026-09-21T18:00:00. Shorter levels modulate the larger chapter; they do not carry the same weight as L1 or L2. The active signs repeatedly bring delay, duty, isolation, scarcity, fear, older people, debts or shared burdens, endings, and structures that endure pressure over time; and competition, disputes, severance, urgent action, conflict with allies, damaged agreements, and efforts that require force; and changes of authority, leadership, reputation, relations with commanding figures, and action from your own purpose into the same period. [E97]

Zodiacal Releasing from Fortune

Zodiacal Releasing from Fortune is currently Cancer / Gemini / Capricorn / Gemini; the level-two chapter runs from 2025-11-08 through 2027-07-01; recorded status: Normal. [E99]

The nested bounds are L2 2025-11-08 to 2027-07-01; L3 2026-09-01 to 2026-11-08; L4 2026-09-21T03:00:00 to 2026-09-25T07:00:00. Shorter levels modulate the larger chapter; they do not carry the same weight as L1 or L2. The active signs repeatedly bring changes of residence or family circumstance, fluctuating alliances, travel or movement, caregiving demands, and reversals of habit; and study, writing, trade, negotiation, technical work, documents, travel, calculation, and decisions that redirect your public course; and delay, duty, isolation, scarcity, fear, older people, debts or shared burdens, endings, and structures that endure pressure over time into the same period. [E99]

Decennials

The 129-month decennial sequence is in the Moon major period from 2022-09-15T11:00:00 through 2033-06-15T11:00:00; its current sub-period ruler is Mercury from 2026-09-15T11:00:00 through 2028-05-15T11:00:00. [E102]

The decennial rulers add changes of residence or family circumstance, fluctuating alliances, travel or movement, caregiving demands, and reversals of habit; and study, writing, trade, negotiation, technical work, documents, travel, calculation, and decisions that redirect your public course to the long-form prediction. When the same rulers also govern profection, Firdaria, or releasing, their events are more likely to become visible and consequential. [E102]

The remaining near-term sub-period sequence is Mercury from 2026-09-15T11:00:00 to 2028-05-15T11:00:00; Sun from 2028-05-15T11:00:00 to 2029-12-15T11:00:00; Jupiter from 2029-12-15T11:00:00 to 2030-12-15T11:00:00. These boundaries show changes of sub-ruler inside the same major chapter. [E102]

The most useful timing signal is repetition, not any isolated date. Sun, returning across 2 active rulership positions, carries the emphasis back to action, reputation, and career; Moon, returning across 3 active rulership positions, carries the emphasis back to partnership and open contest; Mercury, returning across 6 active rulership positions, carries the emphasis back to action, reputation, and career; Saturn, returning across 3 active rulership positions, carries the emphasis back to creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. This convergence predicts that these subjects recur through several kinds of event during the period; the natal condition of each ruler determines whether they arrive as leverage, burden, conflict, delay, or mixed opportunity. [E23] [E27] [E30] [E44]

Timing Convergence

When several independent clocks repeat the same ruler, the report treats the corresponding events as probable, not merely thematic. The date range identifies when the natal promise is most likely to become visible; the ruler's condition tells whether its first manifestation is constructive, obstructive, or mixed.

Climacteric Years from the Pre-Natal Syzygy (Valens V.2)

Valens marks a year as climacteric when the sign profected from the ascendant falls on the sign of the lunation before birth, or square or opposite it. Because that is four signs out of twelve, the marked years recur every third year in any chart and only their offset differs from one nativity to another. The count below is a property of the arithmetic, not a measure of how hard a life is, and Valens names one aggravating witness for such a year - transiting Saturn in a cadent place - which is a per-year transit and is not evaluated here.

The lunation before birth was a full moon in Sagittarius. Profecting one sign per year from the Virgo ascendant, the years that fall on that sign or its square or opposition are ages 0, 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 24, 27, 30, 33, 36, 39 (and 17 further). [E17]

Ranked Forecast: 2026-2038

These are event judgments, not a list of themes. Rank measures agreement among independent clocks; it does not mean that a lower-ranked year is unimportant. Dates are activation windows, not promises that an event occurs on one exact day.

Rank 1 — 2026-06-15 to 2027-06-15: Mercury Year

Age 36 activates Virgo and self and embodied presence. A technical, commercial, written, educational, or negotiating project becomes the clearest route to advancement; a document or decision redirects reputation. Mercury's natal placement in action, reputation, and career shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 11.0; direct support: annual profection: Mercury; decennial subperiod: Mercury; Ascendant distributor: Mercury; releasing from Fortune L2: Mercury. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; firdaria: Moon/Sun; zodiacal releasing: Saturn/Mars/Sun/Saturn. [E93] [E101] [E94] [E95] [E97] [E99] [E30]

Rank 9 — 2027-06-15 to 2028-06-15: Venus Year

Age 37 activates Libra and livelihood and movable resources. A relationship, alliance, audience, patron, or creative agreement becomes decisive. Attraction and opportunity arrive together with obligations or conflict that must be faced plainly. Venus's natal placement in religion, study, divination, and long journeys shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 4.0; direct support: annual profection: Venus. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; Mercury sub; Sun sub; ascendant distributor: Mercury/Mercury; firdaria: Moon/Sun. [E93] [E101] [E94] [E95] [E33]

Rank 10 — 2028-06-15 to 2029-06-15: Mars Year

Age 38 activates Scorpio and learning, messages, siblings, and local movement. A dispute, severance, competitive push, urgent expense, or break with an ally forces action. The gain comes through cutting away a failing arrangement, not preserving peace at any price. Mars's natal placement in shared resources, fear, and endings shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 4.0; direct support: annual profection: Mars. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; Sun sub; ascendant distributor: Mercury/Mercury. [E93] [E101] [E94] [E36]

Rank 3 — 2029-06-15 to 2030-06-15: Jupiter Year

Age 39 activates Sagittarius and home and foundations. An opening through a teacher, patron, child, creative venture, education, travel, or belief system enlarges the field, but poor terms or overreach can make the opportunity costlier than it first appears. Jupiter's natal placement in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 6.0; direct support: annual profection: Jupiter; decennial subperiod: Jupiter. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; Sun sub; ascendant distributor: Mercury/Mercury. [E93] [E101] [E94] [E39]

Rank 4 — 2030-06-15 to 2031-06-15: Saturn Year

Age 40 activates Capricorn and creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. A delayed obligation, ending, shared burden, older authority, fear, or period of isolation becomes unavoidable and demands a durable structure rather than a temporary escape. Saturn's natal placement in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 6.0; direct support: annual profection: Saturn; decennial subperiod: Saturn. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; Jupiter sub; ascendant distributor: Mercury/Mercury. [E93] [E101] [E94] [E44]

Rank 5 — 2031-06-15 to 2032-06-15: Saturn Year

Age 41 activates Aquarius and labor, service, and burdens. A delayed obligation, ending, shared burden, older authority, fear, or period of isolation becomes unavoidable and demands a durable structure rather than a temporary escape. Saturn's natal placement in creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 6.0; direct support: annual profection: Saturn; decennial subperiod: Saturn. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; ascendant distributor: Mercury/Mercury. [E93] [E101] [E94] [E44]

Rank 11 — 2032-06-15 to 2033-06-15: Jupiter Year

Age 42 activates Pisces and partnership and open contest. An opening through a teacher, patron, child, creative venture, education, travel, or belief system enlarges the field, but poor terms or overreach can make the opportunity costlier than it first appears. Jupiter's natal placement in friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 4.0; direct support: annual profection: Jupiter. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; Saturn sub. [E93] [E101] [E39]

Rank 2 — 2033-06-15 to 2034-06-15: Mars Year

Age 43 activates Aries and shared resources, fear, and endings. A dispute, severance, competitive push, urgent expense, or break with an ally forces action. The gain comes through cutting away a failing arrangement, not preserving peace at any price. Mars's natal placement in shared resources, fear, and endings shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 9.0; direct support: annual profection: Mars; decennial major: Mars; decennial subperiod: Mars. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Moon major; Saturn sub. [E93] [E101] [E36]

Rank 6 — 2034-06-15 to 2035-06-15: Venus Year

Age 44 activates Taurus and religion, study, divination, and long journeys. A relationship, alliance, audience, patron, or creative agreement becomes decisive. Attraction and opportunity arrive together with obligations or conflict that must be faced plainly. Venus's natal placement in religion, study, divination, and long journeys shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 6.0; direct support: annual profection: Venus; decennial subperiod: Venus. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Mars major; Mars sub; Mercury sub. [E93] [E101] [E33]

Rank 7 — 2035-06-15 to 2036-06-15: Mercury Year

Age 45 activates Gemini and action, reputation, and career. A technical, commercial, written, educational, or negotiating project becomes the clearest route to advancement; a document or decision redirects reputation. Mercury's natal placement in action, reputation, and career shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The ruler has the capacity to convert this into a visible result, provided its work is actually performed. Convergence score 6.0; direct support: annual profection: Mercury; decennial subperiod: Mercury. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Mars major. [E93] [E101] [E30]

Rank 12 — 2036-06-15 to 2037-06-15: Moon Year

Age 46 activates Cancer and friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. A change involving family, residence, caregiving, belonging, or private circumstance pulls attention away from the public course and closes an old habit or attachment. Moon's natal placement in partnership and open contest shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The result is mixed: a real opening arrives attached to a price, compromise, or continuing duty. Convergence score 4.0; direct support: annual profection: Moon. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Mars major; Mercury sub; Sun sub. [E93] [E101] [E27]

Rank 8 — 2037-06-15 to 2038-06-15: Sun Year

Age 47 activates Leo and retreat, loss, and hidden difficulty. A change of command, visibility, or relations with authority requires you to claim direction rather than remain in another person's shadow. Sun's natal placement in action, reputation, and career shows where the event comes from or where its consequences land. The result is mixed: a real opening arrives attached to a price, compromise, or continuing duty. Convergence score 6.0; direct support: annual profection: Sun; decennial subperiod: Sun. Other active rulers color the year without increasing its convergence rank: Mars major. [E93] [E101] [E23]

The Full Profection Calendar: 2038-2080

Beyond the detailed cycle above, the annual profection calendar continues as exact arithmetic. Each line gives the year, the activated place, and the Lord of that Year, whose natal condition (judged earlier in this report) decides how the year performs. The Longer Map

Long-range chapters are included to show changes of ruler and emphasis. Their scale matters: a multi-year chapter describes the background field and must not be read as a continuous event.

The Remaining Firdaria Chapters

The remaining Firdaria major periods run Moon (2021-06-14 to 2030-06-15); Saturn (2030-06-15 to 2041-06-14); Jupiter (2041-06-14 to 2053-06-14); Mars (2053-06-14 to 2060-06-14); North Node (2060-06-14 to 2063-06-15); South Node (2063-06-15 to 2065-06-14). [E96]

Moon, 2021-06-14 to 2030-06-15 (9 years). Moon is natally in house 7 with triplicity, so this chapter is routed through partnership and open contest and from a mixed condition repeatedly produces changes of residence or family circumstance, fluctuating alliances, travel or movement, caregiving demands, and reversals of habit [E27] [E96]

Saturn, 2030-06-15 to 2041-06-14 (11 years). Saturn is natally in house 5 with domicile, bound, so this chapter is routed through creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children and from a strong condition repeatedly produces delay, duty, isolation, scarcity, fear, older people, debts or shared burdens, endings, and structures that endure pressure over time [E44] [E96]

Jupiter, 2041-06-14 to 2053-06-14 (12 years). Jupiter is natally in house 11 with exaltation, so this chapter is routed through friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances and from a strong condition repeatedly produces teachers, patrons, children, creative ventures, belief, education, travel, generosity, and opportunities that enlarge responsibility [E39] [E96]

Mars, 2053-06-14 to 2060-06-14 (7 years). Mars is natally in house 8 with domicile, so this chapter is routed through shared resources, fear, and endings and from a strong condition repeatedly produces competition, disputes, severance, urgent action, conflict with allies, damaged agreements, and efforts that require force [E36] [E96]

North Node, 2060-06-14 to 2063-06-15 (3 years). The nodal periods are the configured extension to the seven-planet core; they describe increase and release respectively rather than a planet's own agenda. [E96]

South Node, 2063-06-15 to 2065-06-14 (2 years). The nodal periods are the configured extension to the seven-planet core; they describe increase and release respectively rather than a planet's own agenda. [E96]

Level-1 Releasing from Spirit

The long-range Level-1 releasing map from Spirit runs Capricorn (2002-04-13 to 2028-11-22); Aquarius (2028-11-22 to 2058-06-18); Pisces (2058-06-18 to 2070-04-16) [peak from Fortune]; Aries (2070-04-16 to 2085-01-27); Taurus (2085-01-27 to 2092-12-16). [E98]

Capricorn, 2002-04-13 to 2028-11-22, is a long chapter of action, direction, and reputation. Its ruler, Saturn, is natally in house 5 with domicile, bound, routing the chapter through creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces delay, duty, isolation, scarcity, fear, older people, debts or shared burdens, endings, and structures that endure pressure over time. [E44] [E98]

Aquarius, 2028-11-22 to 2058-06-18, is a long chapter of action, direction, and reputation. Its ruler, Saturn, is natally in house 5 with domicile, bound, routing the chapter through creative work, pleasure, gifts, and children. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces delay, duty, isolation, scarcity, fear, older people, debts or shared burdens, endings, and structures that endure pressure over time. [E44] [E98]

Pisces, 2058-06-18 to 2070-04-16, is a long chapter of action, direction, and reputation. Its ruler, Jupiter, is natally in house 11 with exaltation, routing the chapter through friends, patrons, hopes, and alliances. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces teachers, patrons, children, creative ventures, belief, education, travel, generosity, and opportunities that enlarge responsibility. [E39] The engine marks this as angular from Fortune, increasing activity and prominence without fixing the outcome. [E98]

Aries, 2070-04-16 to 2085-01-27, is a long chapter of action, direction, and reputation. Its ruler, Mars, is natally in house 8 with domicile, routing the chapter through shared resources, fear, and endings. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces competition, disputes, severance, urgent action, conflict with allies, damaged agreements, and efforts that require force. [E36] [E98]

Taurus, 2085-01-27 to 2092-12-16, is a long chapter of action, direction, and reputation. Its ruler, Venus, is natally in house 9 with domicile, triplicity, routing the chapter through religion, study, divination, and long journeys. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces relationships, alliances, agreements, patrons, income, artistic work, pleasures, and the formation or ending of attachments. [E33] [E98]

Level-1 Releasing from Fortune

The long-range Level-1 releasing map from Fortune runs Cancer (2010-03-02 to 2034-10-22); Leo (2034-10-22 to 2053-07-14); Virgo (2053-07-14 to 2073-03-31) [peak from Fortune]; Libra (2073-03-31 to 2081-02-17); Scorpio (2081-02-17 to 2095-12-01). [E100]

Cancer, 2010-03-02 to 2034-10-22, is a long chapter of circumstance and material allotment. Its ruler, Moon, is natally in house 7 with triplicity, routing the chapter through partnership and open contest. From a mixed condition, it repeatedly produces changes of residence or family circumstance, fluctuating alliances, travel or movement, caregiving demands, and reversals of habit. [E27] [E100]

Leo, 2034-10-22 to 2053-07-14, is a long chapter of circumstance and material allotment. Its ruler, Sun, is natally in house 10 with face, routing the chapter through action, reputation, and career. From a mixed condition, it repeatedly produces changes of authority, leadership, reputation, relations with commanding figures, and action from your own purpose. [E23] [E100]

Virgo, 2053-07-14 to 2073-03-31, is a long chapter of circumstance and material allotment. Its ruler, Mercury, is natally in house 10 with domicile, bound, routing the chapter through action, reputation, and career. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces study, writing, trade, negotiation, technical work, documents, travel, calculation, and decisions that redirect your public course. [E30] The engine marks this as angular from Fortune, increasing activity and prominence without fixing the outcome. [E100]

Libra, 2073-03-31 to 2081-02-17, is a long chapter of circumstance and material allotment. Its ruler, Venus, is natally in house 9 with domicile, triplicity, routing the chapter through religion, study, divination, and long journeys. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces relationships, alliances, agreements, patrons, income, artistic work, pleasures, and the formation or ending of attachments. [E33] [E100]

Scorpio, 2081-02-17 to 2095-12-01, is a long chapter of circumstance and material allotment. Its ruler, Mars, is natally in house 8 with domicile, routing the chapter through shared resources, fear, and endings. From a strong condition, it repeatedly produces competition, disputes, severance, urgent action, conflict with allies, damaged agreements, and efforts that require force. [E36] [E100]

The Solar-Return Layer

The exact annual revolution at 2026-06-15T03:53:45Z has Gemini rising; its return-Ascendant ruler is Mercury. The return planets are compared with the natal whole-sign places rather than mixed with a Tajika Muntha or arbitrary point score. [E103]

At 2026-06-15T03:53:45Z, Gemini rises in the annual revolution, so Mercury is Ibn Ezra's return-Ascendant witness. That ruler is in return house 2 in Cancer, with an essential score of 3 and retrograde=False. Its mixed condition gives an opening together with a cost, delay, dependency, or compromise. [E103]

Ibn Ezra specifically compares the sect-light triplicity ruler in the nativity and revolution. Here Saturn moves from natal house 5 and essential score 7 to return house 11 and score -3. The return weakens a strong natal condition, so expected advantages meet delay, cost, or obstruction this year. [E103]

The seven-planet return overlays record: Sun in return whole-sign house 1 overlays natal whole-sign house 10; Moon in return whole-sign house 1 overlays natal whole-sign house 10; Mercury in return whole-sign house 2 overlays natal whole-sign house 11; Venus in return whole-sign house 3 overlays natal whole-sign house 12; Mars in return whole-sign house 12 overlays natal whole-sign house 9; Jupiter in return whole-sign house 2 overlays natal whole-sign house 11; Saturn in return whole-sign house 11 overlays natal whole-sign house 8. Repetition between these whole-sign placements, the profection, and the time lords identifies the events most likely to dominate the year. Natal coordinates used as the return-location proxy because no residence-at-return coordinates were supplied. [E103]

Where the Sources Differ

For Moon, authorities differ on triplicity dignity: Dorothean (Dorotheus, Bonatti): +1; Ptolemaic (Ptolemy, Lilly): none. [E105] Both results remain visible because fidelity to traditional astrology requires preserving disagreement rather than silently combining incompatible tables.

For Saturn, authorities differ on term (bound) dignity: Egyptian bounds (Valens): +2; Ptolemaic bounds (Ptolemy): none. [E106] Both results remain visible because fidelity to traditional astrology requires preserving disagreement rather than silently combining incompatible tables.

Method and Limits

The astronomical positions come from the project's Swiss Ephemeris chart, with whole-sign houses used for topics and the seven visible planets used for core judgment. Each bracketed evidence identifier maps to a calculated fact, an authority label, a provenance path, and an explicit interpretive limit. Those identifiers are a verification aid, not decorative citations.

Historical texts disagree on important tables and methods. Where a supplied chart-specific fork changes a judgment, this report keeps both positions. Where an authority has not yet been verified against a stable primary-text edition, the system must describe it as a configured method rather than claiming universal or perfect textual authority.

This edition publishes the supplied historical length-of-life arithmetic, including competing branches, failed results, and anaretic testimony. It does not convert that historical judgment into medical direction. Protected professional domains, prescriptive remediation, and concrete practical instructions remain outside the customer report.

How to read these

L1. Sect changes planetary moderation; it does not turn a malefic into a benefic.

L2. The Ascendant begins the places. In whole-sign practice the degree of the Midheaven may fall outside the tenth sign, so its degree and the tenth place supply related but distinct testimony.

L3. Ptolemy makes Mercury's sect determinate from its solar phase. 'Common' names the rule, not the answer: given a phase there is always an answer. This modifies Mercury's condition; it does not by itself make Mercury strong or weak.

L4. Valens judges the Lot of Fortune as a second Ascendant and reads wealth over time by comparing it against the eleventh place from it. Place tiers are his: busy (Asc, MC, 11th, 5th), middling (9th, 3rd, 7th, 4th), injurious (2nd, 6th, 8th, 12th) - IV.11, 176. This is a placement testimony, not a prediction of wealth.

L5. A comparative placement rule about the direction of material fortune over a life, not a promise of wealth or poverty. It says nothing about amounts and nothing about a date. NOTE: the Acquisition place is a fixed ten-sign offset from Fortune, so the two tiers are NOT independent testimonies - they are one placement stated twice, and must not be counted as separate agreeing evidence. The split occurs for only four of the twelve possible Fortune placements (houses 4, 6, 10 and 12); on the other eight the rule is silent.

L6. A delineation of the DEGREES, not a verdict on the person. Valens attaches conditions constantly and they decide the outcome - Sagittarius in Mercury's bound gives philosophers 'when Mercury inclines' and soldiers 'when Mars'; Capricorn in Jupiter's bound produces BOTH reputation and disrepute. Quoting the substrate without the condition is quoting half a sentence. The bound is one testimony among many and is outweighed by placement and sect. Valens sets the degrees out one at a time for teaching; in a real nativity the domicile lord lying over them decides whether what the degree carries comes out base or good (I.3, printed p. 19).

L7. Valens judges each ruler by place - angular or busy gives fortunate and brilliant, succedent middling, cadent low and unfortunate - and divides the life between the first and second. It describes a SHAPE, not dated events, and it names no hinge year: Valens puts the turn at 'the ascension of the sign', which depends on the birth latitude and is not computed here.

L8. A statement of METHOD - which significators answer which question - not a forecast. Valens carries at least eight distinct timing systems and ranks none of them, because he held that the method must be fitted to the chart and said he ran out of life to determine which was right.

L9. A rule about WHICH planets to weigh for a topic, not a statement about the reader's family. Valens judges the parents by asking which of Sun, Saturn, Moon and Venus is more afflicted or has fallen away - a comparison that is impossible if only one significator per parent is admitted.

L10. A place Valens tests for malefic ownership or aspect, not a verdict about the reader. He states its topic directly - fears, dangers, confinement - as the SUBJECT the place concerns when active; whether it activates depends on the malefic testimony, which this reports rather than assumes.

L11. A list of years the method marks, not a forecast of events in them. Valens calls such a year 'climacteric and disturbed' and names one aggravating witness - transiting Saturn in a cadent place - which is a per-year transit and is not evaluated here. The years recur on a fixed three-year lattice because the rule is arithmetic, so their number says nothing about how hard a life is.

L12. Names the significator and which of five ordered rules resolved it, then reads Lilly's own two-state table (well- or ill-dignified) for that specific planet. Do not blend the two states; the chart's own dignity score and affliction status pick exactly one.

L13. Names which planet governs the native's trade and by which of five ordered rules, not the trade itself. The candidate pool is fixed at three planets by Lilly's own text; do not substitute a different planet even if better dignified elsewhere in the chart.

L14. Valens divides the lunar month into eleven named configurations and gives each a topic and a ruling planet. The waxing half-moon carries injury and violent happenings; the waning half-moon carries old matters and long-lasting afflictions, under Saturn - acute against chronic. This is a topical assignment, not a prediction.

L15. A complete and systematic attribute set in the source, recorded for fidelity. It is a property of the PLANETS, not of the reader, and carries no judgment about the chart. Mercury's pair was not preserved in the passage as read and is therefore omitted rather than guessed.

L16. The bound of the rising degree, delineated. A statement about the DEGREES, not a verdict on the person, and one testimony among many. Valens sets the degrees out one at a time for teaching; in a real nativity the domicile lord lying over them decides whether what the degree carries comes out base or good (I.3, printed p. 19).

L17. Condition describes capacity and manner of action, not a concrete event or a classification of the reader.

L18. Hayz and halb modify accidental condition. They do not make a malefic benefic, cancel essential debility, or establish an event.

L19. A twelfth-part is a derived subdivision used as a secondary testimony. Method forks must remain visible, and the projection does not replace or override the planet's natal position.

L20. Joy is a place-based affinity and modifier of activity. It does not erase essential debility, sect, maltreatment, or contrary testimony.

L21. A monomoiria ruler is secondary degree-level governance. The engine's +1 self-rulership score is a configured weighting and must not be presented as a number supplied by Paulus.

L22. Paulus applies the trigonal canon to the degree of the sect light. It is not a general second monomoiria ruler for every planet.

L23. Apply each column only to the significators Lilly names. An unrelated planet's pitted or azimene flag is recorded but does not authorize a natal obstruction or bodily conclusion.

L24. A dispositor chain shows where a planet must obtain governance or resources. It establishes structural dependence rather than a fixed outcome.

L25. The condition band is a project ranking aid. Cite its listed reasons; it indicates relative capacity and connection to the topic, not a promised biography or outcome.

L26. Lilly preserves the Arabic years doctrine but explicitly doubts that the Hyleg, Anareta, and Alcocoden can be selected with certainty. Show competing branches and the exact aspect mode.

L27. Each numerical figure is the exact output of its disclosed branch, not a universal result. A branch admitted through whole-sign co-presence must identify that fallback because it is not stated in Lilly's inspected chapter. Every rival branch, aspect mode, sanity failure, and arithmetic adjustment must remain visible.

L28. An aspect joins testimonies; it must be interpreted through both planets' condition and topics.

L29. Firmicus treats major configurations through the reflected degree like ordinary configurations. The one-degree publication limit is a conservative configured choice because the inspected passage gives no numerical orb.

L30. Attendance contributes to rank only through the complete hierarchy of luminary gender and angularity, attendant angular testimony, and the guard's nature and condition. A single guard is not a royal configuration.

L31. Reception can provide assistance or exchange; it does not erase debility or ensure resolution.

L32. Paulus defines this lot through body, life-course, possessions, reputation, and privilege. It must still be judged through place, ruler, ruler condition, and configurations; its label alone does not establish an event.

L33. Paulus defines this lot through soul, temper, mindfulness, power, and deliberate action. It must still be judged through place, ruler, ruler condition, and configurations; its label alone does not establish an event.

L34. Paulus defines this lot through appetite, voluntary desire, friendship, and mutual favor. It must still be judged through place, ruler, ruler condition, and configurations; its label alone does not establish an event.

L35. Paulus defines this lot through constraint, submission, struggle, war, enmity, hatred, condemnation, and restriction. It must still be judged through place, ruler, ruler condition, and configurations; its label alone does not establish an event.

L36. Paulus defines this lot through boldness, treachery, might, and villainy. It must still be judged through place, ruler, ruler condition, and configurations; its label alone does not establish an event.

L37. Paulus defines this lot through trust, expectation, contest, association, penalties, and rewards. It must still be judged through place, ruler, ruler condition, and configurations; its label alone does not establish an event.

L38. Paulus defines this lot through subterranean and cold fates, impotence, exile, destruction, grief, and the quality of death. It must still be judged through place, ruler, ruler condition, and configurations; its label alone does not establish an event.

L39. Picatrix supplies electional and image-making operations here, not natal personality or destiny rules. The mansion may be named, but its operations must not be converted into a statement about the native.

L40. The syzygy supplies lunar-cycle context. It does not independently determine character, health, longevity, or a concrete event.

L41. This is a broad judgment of fortune, property, and elevation. It supplies no equal age thirds or event dates, and the participating ruler has no fixed final third or late-life period in the inspected passage.

L42. The source supports relative first, middle, and last phases but does not itself supply numerical age boundaries. Keep this phase doctrine separate from the Lilly-scoped Hyleg and Alcocoden branches published elsewhere in the report.

L43. A profection activates natal topics; it does not independently promise an event.

L44. A constraint on interpretation, not a prediction. It is the doctrinal guard against the commonest predictive error - treating a hard period as meaning the same thing in every chart. Valens states it as an instruction: 'but distinguish'.

L45. This is a ruler-activation calendar rather than a calendar of fixed events.

L46. This is the Ascendant distributor only, calculated through a configured zodiacal oblique-ascension method, one-degree-per-year key, Egyptian bounds, and latitude-free aspect points. Transition ages are a configured key.

Bound transitions are numerically solved inside the sampled brackets, but remain model dates rather than observed guarantees.

L47. Firdaria supplies period rulers whose natal condition must be judged before topical conclusions.

L48. Each major period hands the chapter to a new lord; its natal condition decides how that chapter performs.

L49. Releasing describes chapters and relative activation, not automatic eminence, crisis, or concrete events.

L50. Level 1 supplies broad chapters. Peak status raises activity but does not guarantee eminence or crisis.

L51. This map identifies overlapping chronocrators only. Concrete prediction requires convergence with the nativity and another independent clock.

L52. The 129-month structure and planetary month shares are text-inspected, but the detailed computational exposition is transmitted in a section Riley labels a fifth-century addition. Calendar dates are a modern civil-month rendering. Decennials identify chronocrators; they do not independently promise an event.

L53. Ibn Ezra treats the annual revolution as shorter-lived testimony that must be compared with the nativity, directions, profection, and repeated rulers. Return houses depend on location; this report uses the natal coordinates as a proxy because no return-location coordinates were supplied.

L54. This is a historical temperament classification only; it does not classify the reader's body or mind.

L55. State both positions; do not silently merge or select them as universally correct.
